

Super Ridonculous Race

by thenewsubwayguy

Category: King of Fighters, Total Drama series

Genre: Adventure, Humor

Language: English

Status: In-Progress

Published: 2016-04-08 14:08:23

Updated: 2016-04-18 14:04:39

Packaged: 2016-04-27 21:51:26

Rating: T

Chapters: 2

Words: 5,952

Publisher: www.fanfiction.net

Summary: With more teams racing for a million dollars, this ain't just your normal Ridonculous Race, this is a SUPER RIDONCULOUS RACE! 33 teams battle it out in places around the world using random stuff, dirty tricks and special skills to beat the others. Rivalries will be made or reheated and new and old friendships will have to survive the drama within the race.

1. Leg 1-1a: Two By Two!

The Super Ridonculous Race

>Episode 1: The Runaway Start!

>Part 1a: Two By Two Pt 1!

Don was hosting this version of the Ridonculous Race with Dee Jay and it was basically hype all the way through the competition and they all started in Montreal, which was the Canadian city that the race started in.

'I'm Don, the presenter of the normal Ridonculous Race!' he announced to the world, who was waiting for the real thing. 'Here to present some things!'

'I'm Dee Jay, bringing them good vibes to this cloudy place! Bringing you some great vibes!' he shouted, telling the audience that the mood was actually pretty good in the place.

'Wait, are you actually a DJ or something?' Don asked the Jamaican cool dude.

'Aw yeah! I'm part-fighter, part-DJ and all chill! These guys are in a race to the finish to win a million dollars, baby!' Dee Jay shouted and he was actually

'This is the International Ridonculous Race, where many teams from around the world come together and race each other in a race around the world for ONE! MILLION! DOLLARS!' Don shouted and the people in the background were cheering pretty hard, as most of them were contestants and the rest were liking the show a lot.

'Hey! Stay tuned because dis is...the international! ridonculous race!' Dee Jay shouted and then after that and the intro, the contestants were on the camera.

Right after, the first duo and they were standing and they both looked kinda stupid, but their stupid looks didn't matter as they were looking plain intimidating today.

'How are you guys not arrested for some crime?' Don asked, confused about

'I barely did any crimes, skinny...host.' Stromboli replied, trying to come up with an insult and failing hilariously and Barker chuckled his ass off a bit.

'Thanks. Anyways, these guys are Barker & Stromboli, the harsh bosses and they're here to win more money!' Don said to the audience at home and they both did some waving and DJ had no problems with the two of them.

'Are you guys actually doing this thing?' Clark asked, who was an army guy.

'Yeah! What the hell are you going to do about it?' Stromboli shouted to his face and the army dude, Clark, just didn't give a damn about that stuff.

'Nothing, m-man.' Harold said, scared of the Italian dickhead.

It changed into the interview scene and they were sitting in the room like they were just complete dickheads while Coachman Barker was just looking like a lying politician.

'You WISH you were actually competent...at saying things.' Barker said, obvious not liking Stromboli's style of talking.

'Look, we're here to be a million dollars richer, so the last thing I need is a team-mate trying to screw me!' Stromboli shouted, pissed off about Barker's insult.

'Please, we're supposed to be introducing ourselves to the people.' Barker told his team-mate and it was just really awkward for the both of them. 'Trust me, I know how to win a show like this.'

'Your dumb ass knows that it's a race, right?' Stromboli asked Barker and that moment right there is when that British criminal realized that he was actually acting like a dumbass. 'That's what I thought.'

'Ahhhh, let's not just waste time.' Barker said, still trying to pretend that the Italian fat-ass was in the wrong.

Robert, Yuri & Ryo were representing their karate style for the world and they were actually trying to train in some random alley to show their moves to each other.

'Yuri, you know the moves right?' Robert asked her, having this smug look

'Yeah, I know all of the moves, even those ones!' Yuri shouted from the alley and this got the attention of the Todoh and Malin, who was just right besides the alley.

'But can you do all of those moves?' Robert asked her once again, as he was confident that he could do said secret moves with ease.

'Come on, you can't do those moves easily!' Ryo shouted at his little sister Yuri, who thought she could easily do said secret moves and it was an awkward moment

'If you want me to prove it, I'll prove it.' Yuri said, talking crap about the skills of the girly ninja.

'Haha, you think you out of all people can do them?' Malin asked the three of them from a random window and then she jumped down from that window and she landed on the floor like she failed.

'Maybe, but you can't beat me if your skills are going to be like that.' Yuri said, commentating on Malin's fail.

'Wait, are you okay?' Ryo asked Malin and it looked like she had no hurt on her body and Malin got up easily.

'Hey, Kyokugen bitches. I can jump down a house with no problems!' Malin shouted, as she was actually running back to her team of three and the ninjas were made up of Ibuki and Eiji, making use of their skills and Malin, screwing up a bit.

Chun-Li and Cammy were in this place and it looks like everybody wants to get their autograph, even they're not really celebrities in the normal sense and they also have no pen.

'We have the two World Warriors, Chun-Li and Cammy, ready to race all of the new challengers.' Don announced and it was now focusing on the two of them and then the two dudes

'Come on. Nobody cares about our autographs.' Chun-Li said, just trying to get everybody away from her.

'Doesn't matter, you guys should sign...these pieces of paper.' Harold said to the two of them and it was just dumb in his retrospective.

'I think nobody cares about the autographs of these two girls.' Eva told Harold, kinda getting up and close with the nerdy dud.

'You guys make a really great team.' Harold told them, complementing Chun-Li and Cammy in something that they haven't really done yet.

'Wait, we've never been a team...' Cammy said, confused as fuck and both of them just wanted to get both Harold and Max out of the place and it didn't help that the two of them were just plain annoying.

'Can you two please stop?'

'If you don't sign my shirt, then I'll punish you with...something!' Max shouted, still not convinced that Chun-Li and Cammy's signatures meant jack shit and Harold got the memo pretty quickly.

'Max, I think their signatures means nothing. They could kick your ass easily.' Harold whispered to Max, who wasn't his team-mate and then he went back to Cody, his actual team-mate.

'Shut up, what do you know about these two fighters?' Max asked, tempting the two women to just do some moves, but they were Ryuhaku & Kasumi (Tudoh) were back together and they were actually pretty happy to be doing this race, as shown by their smiles on the face.

'Hey, Kasumi.' Ryuhaku said to his daughter, who was talking with some old team-mates and they were going to talk about something.

'Sorry, I've got to talk with my father.' Kasumi said, being all casual with her friends. 'Yes, father?'

'And here we have the Akido Family, preparing to get in the groove and get their mojo!' Dee Jay shouted, excited to see what would be up next and he was also perpendicular and as far as away as he could be.

'Kasumi, we can do this and take down everyone!' Ryuhaku shouted and he was kinda crying for some reason. 'Don't give up, even when things are just plain terrible.'

'I never give up! Alright, let's do some training!' Kasumi shouted, extremely motivated.

'Yeah, that's the spirit! Also, don't take it way too seriously.' he said, trying to dissuade her from trying to play dirty in any way and they were ready to train against the Kyokugen dudes.

'Alright, got it!' Kasumi said, who was in really high spirits and the duo was in a really good mood.

Chet & Lorenzo were the first team that was coming back from the original Ridonculous Race and they weren't any less obnoxious than ever in their quest to win.

'We're back, awesome bitches!' Chet shouted, announcing the team's return and making their presence known.

'Yeah, we're Chet & Lorenzo and we are here to win some matches!' Lorenzo shouted, doing the introduction for the hosts.

'It's time for some comebacks and Chet & Lorenzo are going to give you one, as they're all stronger than ever!' Don shouted, announcing Chet and Lorenzo's comeback and the duo was excited to take every single guys down.

'Damn, we're definitely the best if these guys don't look like they matter.' Lorenzo said, having some big ego.

'Dude, we're definitely going to be winners at the end of this!'

Chet shouted and he was actually not joking, as they had some new skills.

'To be honest, I doubt it.' Choi said. 'You guys are just too weak.'

'We're way stronger than you guys!' Chet boasted, flexing his own muscles and it didn't matter to the other contestants that were there.

'I'm way taller than you guys, so I'm definitely stronger than you!' Chang shouted at Lorenzo and Chet and it didn't matter to those two teams and they were pissed at each other.

'Dude, we're gonna grow...and get tall!' Lorenzo shouted, predicting some obvious stuff and the Reformed Criminals were not taking them seriously at all.

'Shut up and stop talking, boys.' Choi said and then they went off to do their own thing.

Chang & Choi were actually a team in this ridiculous race of stupid things and they were having some fun times on the streets and Dee Jay got hold of those guys.

'It's these reformed crime guys, Chang & Choi, who are two dudes who had a change of heart!' Dee Jay shouted, who was announcing over the footage of them.

'Yeah, buddy boys! We're definitely here to show you how to race!' Choi shouted, gesturing like he was an actor.

'Choi, we're going to win this great race with an side order of butt kicking!' Chang boasted.

'So, we got one way to win. Race like we have no time to waste.' Choi said, who was actually not feeling the interview thing and both of them just really didn't want to do some interview.

'We're going to win!' Chang shouted, really happy about the competition and then he high-fived Choi quickly.

'We're worthy of being all-stars!' Choi shouted, accidentally exaggerating their status.

Kim & Jhun were two taekwondo masters and they were looking for villains to basically defeat, but here they only found a opportunity to show the world their styles.

'And here we have the Taekwondo Masters. Kim sometimes uses his hands, while Jhun barely uses his hands.' Don said and he wasn't really trying to interview.

'All of you evil guys better watch out!' Kim shouted, ready to do some kicks for justice.

'You should know by now, that we fight for justice.' Jhun said, keeping it cool and the both were stuck waiting for the co-host to come and do stuff.

'Bad people, watch out!' they both said at the same time and the timing was actually slightly off on their timing and they both looked like they didn't want to be together.

'If we can work together like how we make justice, then this is going to be easy.' Jhun said, having a smile on his face.

'No, there's gonna no easy wins on this team!' Kim shouted, being super enthusiastic with his awesome team-mate and they finally did a kick before both kicks both got parried by each other.

'That was pretty amazing!' Jhun said, suprised by the parried kicks.

Meanwhile, Danson & Warren were the first team that were actual no-names and they were newcomers with a bit of attitude and a lot of Austrailian stylings in their bid to win.

'Coming all of the way from Austrailia, the Skater Mates, Danson and Warren, are here!' Don said, commentating over the scene with the dudes in there with some souvenirs and they were hanging out in the same place as all of the other contestants.

'Dude, what are you guys carrying?' Cody asked, not liking those souvenirs.

'A ton of souvenirs that something to do with this city!' Danson said, liking the city if the smile on his face was any indication and some of the contestants thought he was stupid, but they'll introduce their skills and their strengths.

'To all of our mates back home, we're going to win this for...the beach and the skatepark!' Danson shouted, having a geniune hunger for some competition. 'As it is right now, those places are damn lame.'

'Dude, some of the biggest competition has happen at those places.' Warren said, remembering the times where they were doing some skating competitions against the locals.

'We're doing this race for the park and the beach, so it's going to be all good, mates!' Danson said, loudly and he was in a great mood and he had a ton of motivation.

'The competition here is going to be hella sweet, if they're great!' Warren said, proving that he was excited for the competition and the two dudes just shouted 'WOO!' before their intro ended.

Chris, Yashiro and Karl were up in the place waiting for the hosts like almost everybody else and they were hyped for the race to begin and with Shermie being in a different team, the team was in high spirits.

'Anyways, here's the Fighting Rockers! Consisting of Chris, Yashiro and Karl, these guys are here to fight do some fighting and they're ready to kick some butt!' Don announced for the team and they were actually waiting.

'Hi, Shermie!' Chris said to Shermie and they were just happy to be here.

'Hey, Chris! I think we'll both do good!' Shermie shouted and it was kind of awkward as basically a lot of people managed to hear that stuff.

'Yo, Shermie! Our team's going to be the best.' Yashiro said, talking up his team to be a bit better and he was really confident that the team was going to one of the final teams.

'We'll see about that soon.' Shermie told the whole other team, as it was all up in the air right now.

'Yeah! We're...going to kick some ass.' Chris said, pretty nervously and Yashiro was just talking with Karl about what their favourite songs are and the intimidation/introduction was up next.

'Yo, we're going to be winners in at least a lot of places.' Yashiro boasted, explaining how his team is going to win. 'I swim so fast and Chris is just great at running, so we're definitely going to win out of sheer speed.'

'I don't think that how it works, but we're definitely top three material.' Karl said, talking about how the skills could not matter. 'We might screw up because we might be doing something too fast.'

'But every guy has flaws, even if they're kinda small, so we're worthy of being in the top three.' Yashiro said, trying to justify how the team could easily be a really great team.

'Now, that's definitely true!' Chris told the other two and they were having a positive outlook on this ridiculous race.

To be continued next week with more introductions and more teams ready to do some winning.

2. Leg 1-1b: Two By Three!

The Super Ridonculous Race

>Episode 1: The Runaway Start!

>Part 1b: Two By Three!

Heavy D/Dean and Lucky were a team and a lot of surprised faces were basically thrown in their direction and they were excited to own the place.

'I can't believe you guys even made it!' Yashiro shouted.

'Thanks, you dumbass.' Heavy D replied, still having some animosity from quite a few teams beating their asses into obscurity.

The introductions wasn't going to be some weak-ass considering and they were just pissed off at certain teams, especially Iori's duo and Yashiro's trio, as they got them kicked.

'As we've been basically getting our asses kicked for years, we're prepared to do some hard ass-kicking.'" Lucky said, not sugarcoating it.

'Those teams who messed with us are not going to like us!'" Heavy D boasted, talking about two teams who basically screwed their chances at getting into KOF.

'Yeah, you really don't want to mess with us.'" Lucky said

'Teamwork makes the dream work, baby!'" Heavy D said and they did a quick high-five to each other to show that their friendship was stronger than just a KOF fighting team, if they haven't already done that.

Gwen & Trent tagged together as a couple to do some racing and they weren't expecting to see Heather in the race and the two of them were confused and finding the old guys who came back.

'Hey, it looks like a lot of people came to race.'" Trent said, as the crowd of contestants were just waiting for the hosts to come.

'I can't believe it's you guys!'" Lindsay shouted, actually excited to see them.

'Why is there is a line? Are the hosts not there?'" Gwen asked the people in the crowd and she saw a few familiar faces in that lake of contestants

'I can't see them anywhere.'" Trent answered, actually looking around the road that all of the contestants were in and it was a good time for most of people.

'Gwen, you still look as beatitful as ever!'" Cody said, trying to play it cool and failing hard. 'So, do you want a date?'

'Thanks, but I still don't want a date.'" Gwen told Cody and the dude's chance at a relation ship was just gone. 'Besides, I got Trent with me.'

'Aw, man.'" Cody said, feeling a bit of dissapointment and Trent was being pretty chill about it despite Cody being clear as day about his intentions to board Gwen.

Gwen & Trent were ready to kick some butt and they weren't really to talk about that stuff.

'You know that time when we were on a team and we did really good?'" Trent asked his now girlfriend.

'Yeah...I guess.'" Gwen said. 'Remember that time you were all crazy?'

'I know, don't remind me.'" Trent replied and they were just remenicing about their memories. 'It's pretty cool that we're together as a team.'

'Yeah, it's all cool. This doesn't mean that we're going to be easy to beat.'" Gwen said, finally getting a little bit serious.

'Look, if you guys try to trick us...we'll do some bad things.' Trent said, trying to make the team's image kinda serious, but not too serious as the relationship was kinda awesome.

Lindsay, Tyler and Beth were a not so new tag team and two thirds of the group were just pretty dumb in two different way, while Beth was the sole somewhat smart one.

'Wait, where's Tyler?' Lindsay asked, who was confused who was Tyler.

'I'm still Tyler!' he shouted, making Lindsay remember who he was.

'Oh, Tyler? I thought you I lost you somewhere.' Lindsay said, really happy to see Tyler and they were both hugging each other.

'Tyler's always been here and he's been doing stuff!' Beth told Lindsay and then the blonde girl realized that he basically never left and it was time to introduce the three of them.

'We're here to race if everyone wants to know!' Lindsay shouted, acting a little bit more serious than usual.

'I think everyone already knows that!' Beth told Lindsay and the thing already started on an awkward note and it was going to be more awkward as it went on.

'Oh, man. This thing is gonna be tough!' Tyler shouted, as he was showing off his random posing.

'I'm gonna see some awesome places!' Beth said, barely containing her excitement for the race. 'And I get to do it with my best friend!'

Lindsay and Beth made a noise that was like them expressing their hype and excitement and Tyler was just stuck in the background, feeling unappreciated by Lindsay.

'Hey, Tyler!' Lindsay said to Tyler.

'Hey. It's nice see you remembered me.' Tyler said, feeling pretty good after that hug.

Shawn & Jasmine were a tough couple to break, even though Shawn still hasn't gotten over the zombie obsession, as they were both fighting together for quite a while and they were racing to improve their skills.

'Shawn and Jasmine are the two people who are the Wild Survivors and I'm not sure, why Shawn's worried about me because I'm all right!' Don announced and he was commentating over footage of Shawn & Jasmine's encounter with the talented country people.

'Isn't this supposed to be a race and not a waiting game?' Jasmine asked, tired of the waiting like everyone else.

'Unless they're doing something important, I'm worried about those guys.'' Shawn said, feeling a bit concerned about the two hosts' wellbeing.

''Nah, I bet they're okay.'' Jasmine said, having hope in Don surviving whatever mundane task he was doing.

''Still, I'm not sure why he's not here.'' Shawn wondered and then he realized that Sugar was trying to get his attention for some weird reason, while Ezekiel was trying to stop her.

''Hey, it's you guys!'' Sugar said and Jasmine didn't want to remember her, while Shawn forgot.

''Wait, who are you?'' Shawn asked, obviously not remembering her and it got Sugar really angry that people don't really remember her.

''I'm Sugar! The talented country girl with a skill for rapping!'' Sugar shouted, introducing herself pretty damn awkwardly and then Ezekiel stepped in to make it even more awkward.

''Yo, I'm the country man, Ezekiel! Erm...writing rhymes like I cool down with ice!'' he shouted, making his awkward introduction and the two of them were in a strongman's pose and then the situation turned for the worst.

''Didn't you drag me down just to make me lose?'' Jasmine asked, remembering the bad times, where Sugar was just plain mean. ''And then you lost in the next challenge?''

''Yep. And I'm ready to drag your butts down again!'' Sugar shouted, getting pretty damn aggressive to Jasmine and Shawn.

''No matter what, I won't have Jasmine get dragged down by anyone!'' Shawn said to Sugar, having the balls to reply to the big-ass country girl using the best words he knew and then Ezekiel

''Come on, Sugar. We're definitely more chill than that!'' Ezekiel said to his team-mate, dragging her away from the wild survivalists. ''All we gotta do is race and win the million dollars!''

''You're right, country boy.'' Sugar said, definitely a little bit calmer than before and then Ezekiel wasn't really that pissed.

Shawn and Jasmine had to prove why they would be able to survive with only their words and they were ready to do just that.

''When the zombies come, us two are going to kick their asses!'' Shawn shouted, talking shit about the undead.

''I don't think they'll come, but we're still going to survive!'' Jasmine shouted, showing that she was ready to do a lot of things.

''Yeah, if anyone comes near us, then we're going to fight to make us win!'' Shawn boasted and he had the skills to win it and combining with Jasmine's awesome skills made them a hard team to beat.

''What about people who want to make an alliance?'' Jasmine asked, giving Shawn something to think about and then he didn't know what to do, so he simply made this line.

'If we have enemies, then we'll fight them and win!' Shawn shouted, still pretty damn motivated.

'Now that's an awesome strategy!' Jasmine said, pretty much accepting Shawn's pretty awesome strategy and then they had some good smiles on their faces.

Terry & Andy were just waiting with some attitude in the place and he was stuck in the waiting place, but he was making use of his time to talk to Rock and Kim Dong Hwan.

'Hey, Rock! How long is this going to go on?' Terry asked the other dudes and he had no ideas what was going on.

'I don't know, but I'm tired of the time-wasting.' Rock said, looking like he was too tired to actually wait for a few moments.

'These Hometown Heroes, Terry and Andy, are representing their city and they're waiting for me in Montreal!' Don said, trying not to shout too much and they were up in the place doing some random stuff, but right now that they had to do some introducing.

'Man, there's no new fighters in the place! I'm here just to compete!' Terry shouted, hyped to be here.

'I'm expecting the competition to be pretty awesome.' Andy said, who just wanted to have a good time in the place. 'I'm gonna make this competition super awesome!'

'Alright, that's definitely the spirit!' Terry said and he accidentally managed to miss the high five. 'This is gonna be a good time and a good competition!'

'If you think that we're weak, you haven't this wolf when he's hungry!' Terry boasted, talking about his awesome skills.

King, Elisabeth & Shermie were an all-French and all-woman team of three different people from the same country and they weren't liking each other a lot because of their differences.

'Three unlikely team-mates, Elisabeth, Shermie and King are the French Fighters representing their country in this race!' Don said, commentating over the footage of them just meeting up with some fighters that they've met before.

'Shermie, I can't believe you're in this race!' Chris shouted and he was really happy to see the whole team in the race.

'Hi! I'm so excited to be racing against you!' Shermie yelled and it was a little bit awkward, but nobody had no problems with her.

'Hey, Chris. We're not here to lose, so don't expect us to go easy!' King shouted and it got the kid a little bit scared and quite a bit excited and Yashiro was actually getting in there.

'Well, that's actually pretty awesome!' Chris said and then Yashiro was about to have his own say on things.

'Yo, we're definitely not going to let ourselves lose a single thing.' Yashiro told the all-women's team and he was looking pretty damn confident and things were actually pretty tense between the two teams.

Now, they were definitely ready to show what they could do using only their words in some random room with some cameras.

'Erm, we're here to race to help some people!' Shermie said, really confident.

'Yeah, that's what we're doing.' King told them, being completely straight.

'We're going to donate the winnings to some animal helping people!' Shermie shouted and she was definitely in a good mood.

'To be honest, I don't really care.' King said, while Elizabeth was staying silent and Shermie was feeling kinda offended.

'It's basically our mission to win it for the animals.' Elizabeth said and it got the team's hopes up by a bit. 'I think all of them need some good places to stay if they're living.'

'That what I'd really like to hear!' Shermie shouted and she was just too loud to be able to fit into a introduction and their introduction was done for the most part and it cut to Iori's duo.

Iori & Vice were an 'all-star' duo, that didn't want to be bothered by the Kusanagi team, who was basically trying to taunt the two of them while they were waiting for stuff to happen.

'Kusanagi, please go and get hurt.' Iori stated, hating that dude like always and Kyo paid no attention. 'You're going to waste my time.'

'Come on, Yagami. You're still trying to get me to care?' Kyo asked, clearly not giving a single crap about the red-haired dude and he kept on talking with his cousin.

'Kyo's basically ignoring you. Well, I know a way to make him see you.' Vice said, ready to explain what Iori needed to do, but Mr. Yagami had better things on his mind like how the hosts suck.

'Kyo can wait. Right now, these hosts need to get hurt.' Iori said, being pretty loud and he was genuinely mad at Don & Dee Jay for wasting some major time and they were in need of some random-ass host.

'Well, I can make sure of my skills of grabbing fighters hurts them.' Vice said, clearly intending to hurt the hosts and Iori wanted to make sure that these hosts aren't late again.

'I can easily injure them on my own, thank you, bitch.' Iori told Vice, being pretty much an ungrateful ass.

'Well, you're definitely welcome.' Vice told him, being sarcastic as all hell and Kyo just noticed the two of them in the background with Souji.

'Yagami's still angry over nothing?' Souji asked his okay cousin and then things went a little bit downhill with the Kusanagi crew.

'Don't talk about that grump.' Kyo said, who was also pretty pissed off ironically.

Kyo & Souji were an awkward team, as they were teaming up for the first time and it didn't help that it was a race, something that they weren't really great at, but Shingo was excited to see them.

'KYO!' Shingo yelled and the most of the contestants were actually looking at him, as they were done

'Oh no.' Kyo said, getting a sudden feeling of dread from even looking at Shingo.

'Kyo, who do you look so pissed?' Souji asked Kyo and he got no answer as Shingo was just expecting Kyo to be happy to see him.

'Kyo? Are you alright?' Shingo asked, obviously seeing that his rival was just pissed off and Souji was just somewhat stumped at Kyo's reaction.

'Wait, who's that guy that just comes up to you?' Souji asked, but Kyo was having a bit trouble trying to even talk his own cousin.

'No, you're just really annoying.' Kyo said, trying to get the fanboy off his own backside and it didn't work as Shingo stood his own ground and things were going down.

'Come on, Kyo. You should really calm down a bit.' Souji told him, trying to get him to chill a bit.

'I guess this ain't a good time.' Shingo said and then he stepped back a little bit to get back to a slightly different place, as Kyo got in his own words...

'I'M PRETTY DAMN PISSED OFF, SOUJI-SAMA!' Kyo shouted, as he saw Ash basically go up to him and taunt his ass like there was a taunt ban. 'Ash, get back to wherever you came from!'

'Are you joking? You do not taunt my cousin like that and then walk away!' Souji shouted at the blond dude.

Now, Sean & Laura were the real brother and sister fighting team, as they were waiting together and both of them even had some tracksuits on to signify that they were training.

'Where have you guys been?' Ken asked, coming with his own son.

'We've been training in some random gym!' Sean shouted, keeping it loud and Ken thought the Brazilian kid was kinda loud. 'I got stronger and I got better by the day!''

''The last time I saw you, you got KO'd pretty hard.'' Ken said, remembering those times when Sean was in the ring.

''But that was then and this is now!'' Sean said, saying that his combat ability has changed for the better and he looked kinda nervous and Laura was just smiling awkward.

''Yesterday, you got thrown hard by me.'' Laura said, remember the training session that was before they took off for Montreal and Sean was feeling the second hard embarrassment.

''Don't worry, Sean. I'll know that you'll get there!'' Ken said, giving the Brazilian kid some okay advice. ''You're gonna become a strong dude, but now's not that time.''

''Thanks, Ken!'' Sean shouted, happy to receive that good advice from such a guy and he went to talk with some random kids and Laura was just there for random-ass support.

''He's definitely going to get better.'' Laura told Ken, pretty quietly to make sure that Sean couldn't hear her.

Sugar & Ezekiel were both country rappers or crappers as they nicknamed themselves and suddenly, all of the bad memories just came back for the two of them.

''Yo, yo, yo! It's the two swaggiest people in the place!'' Zeke said, drawing all of the attention and the cringe to the both of them.

''If you don't think we got talent, well then you need to get better taste.'' Sugar told all of the haters in the race and only a few people cheered for them.

''Come on, if you two made a collab, it would just be embarrassing! You guys just suck too much alone.'' Harold said, critising the two decision's to be a team in the first place.

''You're just jealous that I have more swag than you.'' Ezekiel said and then some people were just cringing at that, while others were just stupified at how stupid that statement was.

''Come on, he's got a point there.'' Sugar told everyone, trying to convince them that Zeke had a good argument there and well, something like that...

''He's right, but he's not smart.'' Courtney said, insulting Ezekiel with something that he already knows and the cringe was ready to settle.

''Yo, I totally was going to say that.'' Zeke said and he was actually suprised that Courtney stole ''his'' line and then Sugar tried to tackle Courtney, but she missed by a bit. ''You're going down like an shot bird!''

''Courtney, stay out of this!'' Harold shouted and it became a lvl between a nerd with a piano and barely any hygiene against a country girl, who she's talented with a little bit of cleanliness.

Rufus the kung-fu fighter & Rick the boxer were two completely different fighters that would have only gotten together in a really special team-based activity and Rufus had some beef with Ken, while Rick was just chill with all of the others.

'Alright, Ken Masters! You better show yourself!' Rufus shouted, exaggrating himself a bit.

'Dude, that isn't really Ken. He doesn't even look like Ken...at all.' Rick said, telling him that Shen wasn't even looking a bit like Ken and he noticed something major. 'You hate Ken waaay too much for this not to be stupid.'

'No, it's just that he's in my way.' Rufus told Rick and he was pissed and then Shen turned around to see the fat American dude.

'I don't know why you're calling me Ken, but okay.' Shen said, still having a smile on his face.

'Oh, shit! You're not Ken?' Rufus asked and he was just geniunely sorry for calling Shen Ken, but he still wanted to fight. 'Anyways, you still wanna fight?'

'Yeah, if it makes you feel better.' Shen said, dissing Rufus for just looking for a fight outta nowhere.

'Of course, it makes me feel better than there's fighters in this place ready to do some beat downs!' Rufus said and then the fight started with some pretty strong moves and it was watch-worthy.

To be continued either sometime this week or sometime next week!

End
file.